

Add Punctuation and Capitalization

people around the world know thomas edison students learn he made things like the light bulb they also learn he worked alone at night edison worked a lot but some stories are not true

edison once said he didn't need to make new things he could buy ideas from people that's what happened with the light bulb a man from England made it in 1845 edison gave him some money for the idea then people at Edison's company changed it in 1879 they made a better bulb people bought it and edison made lots of money

some people think he worked alone all night not true he had a team working for his company sometimes there were 14 people for example he did not make the light bulb better he paid other people to do that

People around the world know Thomas Edison. Students learn he made things, like the light bulb. They also learn he worked alone at night. Edison worked a lot, but some stories are not true.

Edison once said he didn't need to make new things. He could buy ideas from people. That's what happened with the light bulb. A man from England made it in 1845. Edison gave him some money for the idea. Then people at Edison's company changed it. In 1879, they made a better bulb. People bought it and Edison made lots of money.

Some people think he worked alone all night. Not true. He had a team working for his company. Sometimes there were 14 people. For example, he did not make the light bulb better. He paid other people to do that.